Line: We called it Gilley Labor Day because it wasn't the real Labor Day.

Book: BTW

09/17

Line: When the entree came, it looked more like a pile of empty scrotums (scrota?) stacked one on top of the other.

Book: Grounding Griffin

09/24

Line: "---!" Coach V.'s bark was as familiar to me as the sound of the crowd cheering on a Friday night or Saturday afternoon.

Book: Right as Raine

10/01

Line: I didn't sit down at that bar intending to tell a perfect stranger my sorry-ass breakup story, and I sure as hell didn't expect to tongue-fuck said stranger before the night was over.

Book: Borrowing Blue

10/08

Line: Don't ever, ever give a woman a present in a tiny box unless it's an engagement ring.

Book: Hudson's Luck

10/15

Line: This had to be a joke.

Book: Body and Soul

10/22

Line: "No," I said coldly just as the man in front of me smiled wide and stepped forward, clearly intent on embracing me.

Book: Lost and Found

10/29

Line: "Huh?" I asked, turning over and bumping into a familiar, hairy chest.

Book: Felix and the Prince
